Submission of Material for Publication

Members and non-members are welcome to submit material for publication in Muscogiana. All material must be typed on 8 ½ by 11 white paper. Bible records are to be submitted with a photocopy of the title page showing date of publication, the pertinent entries, a typed transcription of the entries exactly as they appear in the Bible, and a notarized statement as to the present owner. To be considered for publication, material must be of historical and/or genealogical significance to the Columbus/Original Muscogee County, Georgia, area that consists of Harris County, Talbot County, Marion County, Chattahoochee County, and current Muscogee County. Final decisions on the acceptance of material for publication are made by the Editor and the Editorial Board. The Muscogee Genealogical Society cannot accept responsibility for errors or inaccuracies in material submitted for publication.

Queries

Queries are welcome from members and non-members. Queries are limited to one per issue. There are no charges for queries.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

This issue might well be called a "book of lists". Names in lists from a definitely identified time and place are valuable sources for the genealogist and local historian. The lengthy list of Columbus bond signers in the 1868 Ashburn murder case provides the names of both white and African-American citizens of Columbus; the same is also true of the membership list of Bethel Baptist Church. The names on the Talbot County free or poor school lists may help identify a missing ancestor. We also continue our extracts from the Riverdale Cemetery records.

A list of a different sort is provided in the listing of Muscogee Genealogical Society members who are researching various surnames. If you see a familiar surname feel free to make contact with the member and share information.

The man who started recording the history of this area, John H. Martin, is the subject of Kenneth H. Thomas's interesting article. Ken, who is with the Historic Preservation Division of the Georgia Department of Natural Resources, has done a good bit of detective work in locating the descendants of our first historian. Another Columbus native, Eugene Bullard, is the subject of Craig Lloyd's book (published this summer) which is reviewed by John Lupold, Chair of the History Department, Columbus State University. Lloyd is professor of American history and Director of Archives at CSU.

Let me call your attention to the web page of the Society maintained by our president, Lea Dowd, and Carol Johnson. The site has just received an outstanding honor, the "Golden Globe Award" of the International Association of Web Masters and Designers. Congratulations to Lea and Carol for their excellent work. Visit the site at www.muscogeegenealogy.com to find many sources--including more lists--relating to original Muscogee County.

IN MEMORIUM

James Leon Holman

An organizer and past president of the Muscogee Genealogical Society, James L. Holman died on November 10, 2000. His obituary appeared in the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer the following day. A native of Columbus, he was born July 16, 1921, the son of Charlie Leon Holman and Marium Amelia Taylor. Widely and affectionately known as "Jimmy", he had a distinguished career in banking and was an active member of St. Luke Methodist Church, the Kiwanis Club of Columbus, the Historic Columbus Foundation and other civic and social clubs. He remained active in this Society and served on its Executive Board. Jimmy's love of genealogy made him an indefatigable recruiter for the Coweta Falls Chapter of the Georgia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, of which he was president at the time of his death. Largely through his efforts, the Coweta Falls Chapter became the second largest in Georgia. He was also a Past President of the Georgia Society, SAR, and Past National Trustee of the SAR. The Muscogee Genealogical Society will miss his cheerful and energetic presence. The sympathies of this Society are extended to his wife, Mary Ida Brown Holman, and to his family.

IN MEMORIUM

William Clark Pease, III

The Muscogee Genealogical Society lost a long time member with the death on September 12, 2000, of William Clark Pease, III. "Billy" Pease was born in Columbus, on August 14, 1914, son of William Clark Pease, II, and Kathleen Golden Pease.

He was a professional engineer. An avid genealogist, Billy Pease became an early member of the Coweta Falls Chapter, Georgia Society, Sons of the American Revolution. He was also a member of St. Paul United Methodist Church. He is survived by his wife, Edith McGowan Pease, a son and two daughters, to whom the Society extends its sympathies. An obituary appeared in the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer, September 14, 2000.

JOHN HAWKINS MARTIN (1818-1900), FIRST HISTORIAN OF COLUMBUS:

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

By

Kenneth H. Thomas, Jr.

John Hawkins Martin was the first person to publish a full-fledged history of Columbus and should be considered the city's first historian. Martin's History first appeared as a completed book 125 years ago in 1875. Martin became a Columbus, Georgia, resident in 1855 when he arrived to take a job as newspaper editor. As best we know, he was not related to any of the local Martin families living there then, or later.

John Hawkins Martin was born in Raleigh, North Carolina, on November 1, 1818.<sup>1</sup> Martin was one of the nine children of John Vanderhorst Martin (died 1833) and Susan Raboteau Martin.<sup>2</sup> Educated locally, he received his first job in the newspaper world by working as an apprentice for six years starting around 1832 on the Raleigh Register. As he served under Joseph Gales, "the foremost newspaper publisher of that period," and presumably his son and successor, he received excellent training, especially in editorial work. His uncle was also well known in the newspaper world in North Carolina.

Martin's first job as a newspaper publisher was in 1840 when he started the Alabama Herald, in Camden, Wilcox County, Alabama. His Columbus obituary indicated he was a writer for the Selma Reporter, before he went to Tuskegee, with no mention of Camden.<sup>3</sup> In anycase, in 1843, he moved to Tuskegee, Macon County, Alabama, where he established the Macon Republican (known later as the Tuskegee News). Then, in 1847, Martin moved to Arkansas and began the Camden Herald, but he sold it two years later and returned to Alabama where he was selected as printer for the Supreme Court Reports (known as the Alabama Reports). He and his brother T. F. Martin appear on the 1854 edition as printers. From 1850 to 1852 he also edited the State Register in Montgomery said to have been started to promote the interests of a Mr. Abercrombie, a congressional candidate. By the time of the 1850 Census the Martin brothers are living in a hotel run by Charles Abercrombie in Montgomery.<sup>4</sup>

The period of time between his work in Montgomery and his arrival in Columbus is covered by the following paragraph from his obituary:

Colonel Martin seems to have been possessed of a roving disposition. He went to New York about this time and for a while worked there. It was in New York in 1855 that Mr. Thomas Gilbert, the veteran Columbus printer and publisher, made his acquaintance. Mr. Gilbert was then serving an apprenticeship as a typesetter in New York.<sup>5</sup>

Martin is said to have returned from New York and founded a newspaper in Wetumpka, Alabama. Then he came to Columbus, Georgia in late 1855, following Thomas DeWolf, an editor/publisher he met in Montgomery who had arrived a few years earlier. DeWolf had decided Columbus needed a daily newspaper, and started the Daily Sun, the first daily in Columbus. It began July 30, 1855. Martin became editor shortly after it began.<sup>6</sup> He then became editor of the Columbus Daily Enquirer, a position he kept, except for one interlude when he went to Kansas about 1857, until the newspaper was sold in 1873 to Alfred R. Calhoun, who was from Philadelphia. Martin resigned on May 12, 1873. Calhoun said he was both owner and editor, but it is known that Thomas J. Jackson became the "local editor."<sup>7</sup> After his departure from the Enquirer Martin stayed in Columbus but transferred his efforts to the Sun and Times, which was published by Thomas Gilbert, a protégé of his former boss, Thomas DeWolf.

Martin's political leanings were commented upon in 1873 in a short series about editors:

Col. John H. Martin of the Columbus Sun, started out in life as a Whig, and he is a Whig to this day. He is conservative in everything, and is so careful of everything he says, that he not only weighs his editorials on a pair of hand scales, but counts the words afterwards. He is a great believer in Benhillism, and some people call him an old foggy; but he is progressive enough to see the necessity for the construction of the Gulf coast water-way. He chews fine-cut, and uses a red silk handkerchief.<sup>8</sup>

Martin did not stay away from the Enquirer for long, for on January 1, 1874, the two newspapers surprised their readers with a New Year's Day announcement that they had merged, and Martin announced in a column headed "Back Again" that he had returned as editor.<sup>9</sup> The combined newspaper was called the Enquirer-Sun, a title it would retain until the 1920s. Martin served as editor of the combined paper until December 14, 1875. At about the same time he published his history, he resigned to be the editor and joint owner of a new newspaper known as the Daily Times, established by Major Charles H. Williams, and by 1881 published and edited by Wynne, DeWolf, & Co., which included members of the DeWolf family, his old friends.<sup>10</sup>

It appears to be during this period when he returned as editor of the Columbus Enquirer-Sun that he compiled the history of Columbus that bears his name. The prospectus was dated May 12, 1874 and a seven-page specimen of the first chapter covering 1827 was issued to secure subscribers. The initial price was $1.<sup>11</sup> The book was published in two volumes in 1874 and 1875, with the latter volume being published just as he moved to the Daily Times.<sup>12</sup> The history's official title was Columbus, Geo., From Its Selection as a 'Trading Town' in 1827 to Its Partial Destruction by Wilson's Raid, in 1865, History-Incident-Personality. Part I, published by Thomas Gilbert, book printer and binder in Columbus, in 1874, covered 1827 to 1846 (actually the information goes through 1845). Part II covered 1846 to 1865 and was published in December 1875. Martin was listed as "the compiler" on the title pages and in the prospectus, and as "the editor" at the end of the introduction. After Martin resigned as editor of the Enquirer-Sun and moved over to the one-year-old Times, he only stayed in Columbus a few more years.

In 1879, Martin left Columbus for good, moving to Atlanta to be editor of the Daily Dispatch, which soon suspended publication. He then purchased and improved the Sunday Gazette, which he sold in 1881 to Major Charles H. Williams, "a well-known and experienced journalist" and apparently his former joint-owner of the Times. The Sunday Gazette had been founded in October 1878, by Henry W. Grady, and he sold it in late 1879 apparently to Martin. Grady, who also worked in Rome, Georgia, had earlier called Martin the "best [editorial writer] in Georgia."<sup>12b</sup>

The continuation of his career lead him after 1881 to Rome, Georgia, where "he engaged in newspaper work for a number of years" at the Rome Courier. He then returned to Atlanta, as associate editor of the Atlanta Journal until 1892, retiring due to ill health. Martin died in Atlanta at the home he had lived in for nearly 20 years on March 10, 1900.<sup>13</sup>

At his death just at the beginning of the 20th century, Martin's fellow newsmen praised his career and his ability as a newsman. The Atlanta Journal, where he last worked, called him "the oldest journalist in Georgia," and at 82, someone who was contributing, even though retired, up to the last weeks of his life before he had a stroke. His accuracy was considered "remarkable;" he had lived through three-fourths of the nation's history, but did not leave any reminiscence of his own life. The newspaper indicated that Martin was always above suspicion, as well as was modest, but defended his positions fearlessly. The Atlanta Constitution indicated that he was a "newspaper man of the type fast disappearing from active life, the kind that not infrequently in former years set the type and read the proof themselves of the article they had just written."<sup>14</sup>

FAMILY AND DESCENDANTS OF JOHN HAWKINS MARTIN

John Vanderhorst Martin, the father of John H. Martin, came from Charleston, South Carolina, to Raleigh. It was there in 1814 that he married Susan Raboteau. After his death in 1833, the widow and children scattered, many moving to Alabama. The family tradition is that Mrs. Martin remarried, although to whom is not known.<sup>15</sup>

John H. Martin's uncle, Charles Cornelius Raboteau was editor of the Raleigh Times in 1848, the publisher of the North Carolina Times in Louisburg by May 13, 1848, and published the Muster Rolls from the War of 1812 in 1851 at the Raleigh Times office. During 1856 to 1861 he resided in Washington, D.C. where he was with the National Intelligencer newspaper.

It is not known if Martin had other relatives in Columbus when he moved there. One sister, Susan, married Seaborn Williams, an attorney, in Tuskegee, Macon County, Alabama, in 1844. He died there in 1859 and is buried in the Tuskegee City Cemetery. Susan Martin Williams died in Columbus, Georgia, in 1887.<sup>16</sup>

After moving to Columbus, Martin married Miss Isabella McGehee (1841-1904), who was a daughter of Isaac and Martha (Kennon) McGehee, of Russell County, Alabama.<sup>17</sup> The McGehee heritage is covered in Jane Grider's book, McGehee Descendants, Volume III.<sup>18</sup>

The Martins had three known children:<sup>19</sup>

1. John B. Martin (1861-1881), dying presumably without issue, as he was single in the 1880 census.
2. Clara Martin (1867-1950), a stenographer, who never married, and died in Atlanta, leaving a will.
3. Charles D. Martin (1873-1943), who married in 1899 in Atlanta, Mamie E. Kiser. Mamie was the daughter of Cicero C. Kiser and Ellen Roberts Kiser. Charles Martin and his family lived briefly in Pickens County, Georgia, where he worked for the marble company, but upon returning to Atlanta he ran the Charles D. Martin Insurance Co. Mamie Kiser Martin died in 1948 in Atlanta.

Charles and Mamie Kiser Martin had three sons:

1. Charles Dickens Martin, Jr., (1900-1971). A World War One Navy veteran, he married in Atlanta in 1930, Lois Pickett. They were divorced in the 1930s. By 1948 Charles had moved to Florida, living at the Veterans Hospital at Bay Pines, near St. Petersburg. He died there and was buried at the military cemetery in Pensacola, Florida. Lois Pickett Martin remarried in 1950 to James Marshall Gloer. She now lives in Decatur, Georgia. Charles and Lois (Pickett) Martin had one daughter, Martha Winfrey Martin, born in 1931. She married Kenneth Bramlett Moore (1928-1987). He died in Atlanta and is buried in the Decatur City Cemetery, Decatur, Georgia. They had four children, Kathleen Denis Moore, Stephen Kent Moore, Carol Elaine Moore, and Wayne Martin Moore. As of this writing, there are five grandchildren. Martha Martin Moore lives in Loganville, Georgia. She and her descendants are the only living direct descendants of John H. Martin. The Martin family material in her possession includes one page from the Bible of John V. and Susan Raboteau Martin, clipped and undated editorials of John H. Martin, some family deeds, a few letters, and a few photographs. Unfortunately, she has no photograph of John H. Martin, nor an original copy of his book.

2. John H. Martin (1906-1933). He died in a hunting accident.
3. Robert Williams Martin (1908-1966) married in 1930 in Atlanta, Virginia Lee Johnson (1907-1998). He owned and operated the insurance agency begun by his father for several decades until his untimely death in Atlanta at age 58. He and Virginia had no children.

John Hawkins Martin and his wife, Isabella, and their children, John B. and Clara, are buried at Atlanta's Oakland Cemetery under a four-sided obelisk. Charles and Mamie Kiser Martin and their sons Robert W. Martin and his wife Virginia, and John H. Martin are all buried on the same lot in Atlanta's Westview Cemetery.

Research continues into Martin's role in Columbus, the newspapers he might have had access to that could remain with his family, and other information about him.

NOTES

1. The biographical details of this article are based on three main sources. Except for the Columbus newspapers, where specific citations are given, no attempt has been made to sort out or verify the various attributions about his career, such as his early work under Joseph Gales, whose biographical sketch in the Dictionary of American Biography indicates he left Raleigh in 1832 and that a son took over the newspaper. The Gales family was an important journalistic link to have for a fledgling journalist. The first sketch on Martin's career is a biographical sketch found in a series of sketches about Georgia newspaper editors. The one on Martin was first discovered in "The Fourth Estate, Number V," The Darien (GA) Timber Gazette, March 4, 1881, page 2. This no doubt appeared in other Georgia papers, perhaps even those in Columbus. The second major source was the obituary of John H. Martin from the Atlanta Constitution, March 12, 1900, p.5. The third is his obituary from the Enquirer-Sun, March 13, 1900, p. 8, columns 2 and 3 and a follow-up on March, 14, 1900, p. 6, columns 1 and 2. I published a shorter version of this article in Alvie Davidson's Index to Columbus, Georgia, 1827-1865, Author: John H. Martin (Lakeland, Fla., 1988), copies of which are still available from the indexer/publisher.
2. The parental and sibling background of Martin was provided by Victor L. Crawford, Jr., of Arlington, VA, who descends from Martin's maternal aunt. Martin's parents' marriage is recorded in Lois Neal, Abstracts of Vital Records from Raleigh, North Carolina, Newspapers, 1799-1819 (The Reprint Co., 1979), p. 340. His father was listed as "teller at the state bank."
3. Obituary, Enquirer-Sun, March 13, 1900, p. 8, col. 2.
4. 1850 Census, Montgomery County, Alabama, p. 136-A. The Martins were each listed as "printer."
5. Obituary, Enquirer-Sun, March 13, 1900, p. 8, col. 2.
6. N. K. Rogers, History of Chattahoochee County, Georgia (1933), pp. 149-150, quoted in Worsley, Columbus On The Chattahoochee (1950), pp. 382-383, and p. 403. DeWolf sketch by Thomas J. Jackson (unsigned), in "Memories of Olden Days: Columbus During the Fifties---1855, Chapter

- 172," his series in the Enquirer-Sun, June 26, 1898. Reference to Wetumpka from Obituary, Enquirer-Sun, March 13, 1900, p. 8, col. 2.
7. Daily Columbus Enquirer, May 13, 1873, p. 2, column one for the sale, column two for announcement of Martin's resignation. The Enquirer-Sun issue of January 1, 1874 indicated Jackson would "retain his old position" and Haddock's Columbus, GA Directory (1873) indicated Jackson was local news editor of the Enquirer, Reference to Kansas from Obituary, Enquirer-Sun, March 13, 1900, p. 8, col. 2.
  8. Daily Columbus Enquirer, August 21, 1873, p. 1, col.3.
  9. The Enquirer-Sun, January 1, 1874, p. 2, columns 1 and 2. Thomas Gilbert would be the printer.
  10. Rogers, op. cit., the DeWolf sketch, p. 150 indicated that Walter DeWolf, son of Thomas, was involved in establishing the Times on January 1, 1875. DeWolf sketch by Thomas J. Jackson (unsigned), in "Memories of Olden Days: Columbus During the Fifties---1855, Chapter 172," his series in the Enquirer-Sun, June 26, 1898. Daily Enquirer-Sun, December 14, 1875, p. 2, col. 1 for Martin's resignation. A little bit more on the Alabama career of DeWolf can be found in Memorial Record of Alabama, Vol. 2, pp. 186, 190, and 200. Martin is mentioned briefly on p. 190 for starting the State Register on November 22, 1850.
  11. The prospectus for the book, dated May 12, 1874, first appeared in the Enquirer-Sun on May 15, 1874, p. 3, col. 5. A copy of the seven-page specimen or sample found at the University of Georgia has the title Prominent Incidents in the History of Columbus, Ga.. From Its First Settlement, In 1827, to Wilson's Raid, in 1865 and includes the prospectus with a few changes but no date other than 1874 on the title page.
  12. The DeWolf sketch in Rogers, p. 150, indicated that Walter DeWolf had assisted Martin in compiling information for the history when they both worked for Thomas Gilbert at the Enquirer. It would appear by comparing the date of his resignation announced in the Enquirer-Sun on December 14, 1875, and Gilbert's announcement in the Enquirer-Sun of January 25, 1876 that Thomas J. Jackson would deliver the second volume of the history, "just issued," that the two events were very close together.

- 12b. Raymond B. Nixon, Henry W. Grady, Spokesman of the New South (New York, 1943), p. 113, and p. 157. One of Martin's obituaries indicated he sold it to Grady, but Nixon cites Grady's first issue in 1878 being mentioned in another paper and entries from his diary for 1878 and 1879.
13. Obituary in the Atlanta Constitution, March 12, 1900, p. 5, col.2.
14. The Atlanta Journal, March 12, 1900, p. 4, in a column called "A Nestor of Journalism," as well as the obituary in the Atlanta Constitution, cited above.
15. Information via telephone and e-mail from Victor Crawford, Jr., now of Arlington, VA, a direct descendant of the Raboteau family.
16. The paragraphs on the uncle's career and on Martin's sister are also from Victor Crawford, Jr. The marriage of Susan Martin and Seaborn Williams in Macon Co., Ala. and her death in Columbus in 1887 are also verified by newspaper notices of the era.
17. Eleanor D. Hobbs, comp., Marriage Records, 1833-1887 of Russell County, Alabama (1965), p. 36, John H. Martin and Isabella J. McGehee, by L. F. McCoy, on November 13, 1860. Original volume p. 436. It also appeared in the local newspaper, citation not available.
18. Obituary of Mrs. Isabelle Martin, the Atlanta Journal, August 16, 1904, p. 8. Grider, and her mother Ethel Woodall Grider, a daughter of W. C. Woodall, published their work in 1991. There are major errors in the Martin portion, which appears on p. 442.
19. Birth and death dates for John B. and Clara are from tombstone inscriptions on the family obelisk at Oakland Cemetery, Atlanta.. Clara Martin's Funeral Notice, the Atlanta Constitution, Sunday, January 16, 1950, p. 8-D. Birth and death dates for Charles D. Martin, his wife and sons John H. and Robert W. are from their tombstones at Atlanta's Westview Cemetery. Charles D. Martin is found in the 1900 Census at Nelson, Pickens County, Georgia, and in the 1920 Census at Kirkwood, DeKalb County, Georgia. Atlanta City Directory listings giving address, occupation and children living at home. Obituary of Charles D. Martin (Sr.), the Atlanta Journal, Sept. 27, 1943. Obituary of Mamie Kiser Martin, the Atlanta Journal, November 18, 1948, p. 40. Marriage records of Robert W. Martin and Charles D. Martin are in Fulton County, Georgia, Probate Office, Marriage Books. Further information on Martha W. Martin is from the will of Clara Martin, Fulton County, Georgia, where she leaves Martha a trust fund for her education, and from the Atlanta City Directories where Martha appears as late as 1955, unmarried. Obituary of Robert W. Martin, the Atlanta Journal, Sept. 19, 1966, p. 33, col. 1. Funeral notice of Virginia J. Martin, the Atlanta Journal, November 18, 1998 and her will in Fulton County, Georgia, naming heirs, but none on her husband's side. Her birth year comes from the Social Security Death Index on the Internet.

THE ASHBURN CASE: THE BOND FOR THE COLUMBUS PRISONERS

By
Kenneth H. Thomas, Jr.

The document under study is the $50,000 bond signed by citizens of Columbus, Georgia on April 10, 1868. It provided for the release of the first men, known as "The Columbus Prisoners," who were arrested by military authorities in April, 1868, for the murder of George W. Ashburn. The bond and the list of signers are accompanied by three letters exchanged between their attorney and the military authorities.

George W. Ashburn was born around 1814 in North Carolina but grew up in Upson County, Georgia, where he lived with an uncle, Miles Ashburn. During his adult life he lived in several Georgia counties and was in Columbus at the time of the 1860 Census. During the Civil War he lived in Tennessee; after the War he returned to Columbus. By 1867 he was a Radical Republican activist working toward voting rights for the newly-freed African-Americans. Less than two weeks after returning from his duties as a delegate to the State Constitutional Convention in Atlanta, he was murdered in Columbus in the early morning hours of March 31, 1868. The Ashburn Case became one of the most significant incidents of the Reconstruction era in Georgia.<sup>1</sup>

To understand more about the context of the case, see the following:

<sup>1</sup> Kenneth H. Thomas, Jr., is doing extensive research into Ashburn's murder and the subsequent trial held in Atlanta, and about Ashburn's life. He invites anyone with information about Ashburn or his family to write him at 619 Pinetree Dr., Decatur, GA 30030.

The bond, the list of signers, and the letters, were first published in the Daily Sun (Columbus, GA), 12 April 1868, page 2. This material was reprinted almost immediately.<sup>2</sup> The first thirteen men listed in the left hand column were the first thirteen men arrested, although not all of them went to trial.

The Bond

Georgia,
Muscogee County.

Know all men by these presents that we, whose names are hereunder signed, are held and bound unto Gen'l Geo. G. Meade, or his successor in office, in the penal sum of fifty thousand dollars, for the payment whereof well and truly to be made to the said Gen'l Geo. G. Meade, or his successor in office, we hereby bind ourselves, our heirs, executors and administrators, firmly by these presents.

Witness our hands and seals, this 10th day of April, 1868.

The condition of the above obligation is such that, whereas, Gen'l Geo. G. Meade has arrested and confined Wm. R. Bedell, Christopher C. Bedell, Jas. W. Barber, Alva C. Roper, Wm. L. Cash, Wm. D. Chipley, Rob't A. Ennis, Elisha J. Kirksey, Thos. W. Grimes, Wade H. Stevens, John Wells (col'd), John Stapler (col'd), and James McHenry (col'd), who have this day been released by order of Gen'l Geo. G. Meade, on condition that they would each give security, in the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, that they would each report and appear before the military authorities of the United States, at such time and place as the commanding officer of the Third Military District may direct. Now, then, if any of the said parties, so released, shall fail to appear and report to the military authorities of the United States, at such time and place as the commanding officer of the Third Military District may direct, and the parties to this bond shall pay the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars for each and every one of said persons so released who may fail to appear and report as aforesaid, then this bond to be null and void; else, to remain in full force and virtue.

From the Columbus (Ga.) Sun, April 12, 1868.

Columbus, April 7, 1868.

General William Dunn:

Dear Sir—I represent Mr. Chipley, Dr. Kirksey, William and Columbus Bedell, and some others who have been arrested, they know not upon what charge, but suppose that information may have been given at headquarters charging them with complicity in the brutal (and, for our town, unfortunate) assassination of George W. Ashburn.

In this, as in all cases of gross outrage, the innocent are apt to suffer for the wrongs of the guilty. The gentlemen whom I have named are above suspicion as being in any way connected with the transaction; several of them are men of family, and if public justice can be satisfied, as I trust it can, by an examination here without taking them from their families, it is very desirable that it should be done.

An examination, I am sure, would acquit them of any participation in the assassination. They can give any bonds that may be required for their appearance, and if you influence this matter, I hope you will consider it advisable to allow these gentleman to be bailed, until such time as their appearance may be required.

Your ob't serv't,

R. J. Moses.

To Gen. Wm. Dunn, Advocate General.

HEADQUARTERS THIRD MILITARY DISTRICT, DEPARTMENT OF GEORGIA, FLORIDA, AND ALABAMA, OFFICE OF JUDGE ADVOCATE, ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 9, 1868.

Major R. J. Moses, Columbus, Ga:

Dear Sir—Yours of the 7th inst. was received this morning.

I am directed by Gen. Meade to reply that he does not deem it advisable to interfere with the action of Capt. Mills.

While there is a determination here that the parties who murdered Mr. Ashburn shall, if possible, be arrested and punished, it is hoped this may be accomplished without any serious inconvenience to the innocent.

Major Smythe, of this office, is now in Columbus, and I suggest that you confer with him fully and freely.

Your ob't serv't,

Wm. Dunn.

*****

Columbus, GA., April 10, 1868.

Capt. Wm. Mills—

Dear Sir: I would have returned the bond sooner, but the citizens of Columbus, confident of the innocence of the parties in confinement of any offense against either the civil or military authorities, insist on going on the bond, as an assurance to the parties arrested that they have the entire confidence of their fellow-citizens, and are above any well-founded suspicion of criminal conduct. It is with difficulty that I am enabled to close the signatures, even at this point.

With thanks for your courtesy in my intercourse with you in this unpleasant business, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

R. J. Moses

POOR SCHOOL LISTS OF TALBOT COUNTY, GEORGIA

By

Susan Jinnett-Sack and Carol Johnson

NOTE: Public funding for Georgia schools was provided for in the early state constitutions but it was not until 1817 that the state legislature established a fund for the future establishment of free schools. Subsequent acts directed the governor to invest the funds in various ways. In 1821, the legislature passed an additional act to set up a fund to support free schools and endow county academies. In 1822, the legislature directed that the governor divide the sum of $12,000 among the counties in proportion to their numbers of poor children. The amount was increased in 1823 to $20,000. The fund would pay the tuition for three years of schooling for poor children between the ages of eight and eighteen. Under the provisions of an act of 1843, the management of the poor school fund at the local level was the responsibility of the justices of the inferior courts. Depending upon how local officials interpreted the reporting requirements of the various legislative acts, the information returned to the governor varied widely but usually included the names and ages of the poor children; sometimes the names of parents or guardians are listed with the number of eligible children. The lists for Muscogee County are included in Index to Georgia Poor-School and Academy Records, 1826-1850 (Atlanta, GA: R. J. Taylor Foundation, 1980), but not those of Talbot County, once part of original Muscogee. Additional information may be found in Oscar H. Joiner, ed., A History of Public Education in Georgia, 1734-1976 (Columbia, SC: R. L. Ryan Co., 1976).

1851 Poor School Lists

The following is the list of poor children for the year 1851 which I obtained from Henry Jones the County Treasurer who had charge of the poor school fund for that year---approved 22 January 1852. Signed: Marion Bethune, Ordinary.

BOOK REVIEW

by

John Lupold

Craig Lloyd, Eugene Bullard: Black Expatriate in Jazz-Age Paris. Athens and London: University of Georgia Press, 2000. Pp. 217. Illustrations, notes, bibliography, index. $26.95

He spent his first night as a runaway with gypsies camping in East Highlands. After he carried water from Weracoba Creek for their horses, the gypsies let him sleep underneath one of their brightly painted wagons. The next day this eleven-year-old walked up the railroad track toward Atlanta. Fleeing his home (a three-room shotgun near Talbotton Road) and a strict father, the young Eugene Bullard sought adventure, fortune, and freedom from racism. His extraordinary odyssey from Columbus to the skies over the western front during World War I and the night club scene in Paris during the 1920s has been painstakingly researched and skillfully written by Craig Lloyd.

Even though his early life in Georgia occupies less than two chapters in the book, Bullard's experiences in Columbus shaped how he viewed race relations. His father, William Bullard, born into slavery on the Bullard place in Stewart County, moved to Columbus in the early 1890s and worked in W. C. Bradley's warehouse. The elder Bullard, an ox of a man, got into a fight with a contentious white overseer and threw his boss through a hole in the warehouse. W. C. Bradley sided with Bullard, protected him and his family from a white mob, and made sure the family was cared for when Bullard went into hiding. Thus Eugene Bullard viewed Bradley as a "good white person." Such experiences kept Bullard from becoming prejudiced toward all Caucasians, but he longed for a place where he would not have to wear his color as a badge of inferiority.

During his extraordinary life's journey. Bullard traveled with other gypsies, raced horses in south Georgia, stowed-away on a freighter to Scotland, lived with black expatriates in the Soho district of London, and earned money as a boxer, musician, and vaudevillian on stages in England, Berlin, Moscow, and Paris. By 1913, he adopted Paris as his home, where he experienced little of the discriminations practiced in Jim Crow Georgia. When Germany attacked France in 1914, he felt obligated to fight for his new country. He first served as a machine gunner in the Foreign Legion, was wounded during the intense fighting around Verdun, and then flew as a pilot with the Lafayette Escadrille, a group of Americans flying under French command. Even though the latter service was brief, he earned the distinction of being the first African American combat aviator.

Of great importance to Bullard's fate, his wounds earned him French citizenship. His Paris career, chronicled in a fascinating manner by Lloyd, reads more like fiction than a biography. A self-taught fighter and drummer, he used those skills along with his self-confidence, a charming personality, and entrepreneurial expertise to become a central figure in the black jazz and sporting scenes during the roaring 1920s in the Montmartre section of Paris. He owned nightclubs and a gymnasium and rubbed shoulders with all the significant people passing through Paris in that era. He hired Langston Hughes, as aspiring poet, as a dishwasher and Ada Louise Smith, better known as "Bricktop", as a singer; she became a competing club owner. Josephine Baker, the avant-garde dancer, baby-sat his children. F. Scott Fitzgerald frequented Bullard's club, le Grand Duc, and Louis Armstrong kept the crowds coming there during the lean 1930s. Even in this environment Bullard could not escape racism and was infuriated by racial epithets. Unlike his peers living in America, Bullard could fight back both physically and in the courts, and did so on numerous occasions.

When Germany attacked France again in 1940, Bullard rejoined the French army and fought for several weeks before joining the refugees fleeing into Spain and on to New York. Though he lived there for the rest of his life, it never measured up to France. He returned to Paris briefly in 1950, hoping to recreate his old life, but club life never flourished there after the second war. A short visit to Columbus at this time probably reminded Bullard of the lynching of his brother. Racism also pervaded his northern home: in Peekskill, NY, police assaulted Bullard at a concert by the radical African American activist, Paul Robeson. While the French continued to honor Bullard with awards, he settled for a job operating an elevator in Rockefeller Center. On a segment of the "Today Show," Dave Garroway interviewed the former aviator who exhibited his medals and honors [one of them the Croix de Guerre]. Two years later, in 1961, Bullard died.

The only flaw in the telling of this biography was created by the University of Georgia Press. By placing the extensive notes at the end of the book rather than at the bottom of the appropriate page, the press made the book more difficult to read, since the notes are essential to understanding Bullard's life. These notes indicate the incredible amount of scholarship that Lloyd invested in this exemplary work. Lloyd's painstaking investigation should be a model for all researchers. Bullard had written an autobiography in the later 1950s, but Lloyd analyzed every statement in this memoir, and found exaggerations and errors, especially in the treatment of Eugene's early life. Lloyd uncovered the truth by using typical genealogical tools: census records, city directories, and oral history interviews with surviving relatives. Craig's most amazing research occurred in Paris, where he combed every library and every local repository to find the pieces of this story. Lloyd then combined the parts into a balanced, interesting history of an amazing Columbusite who needs to be better known and more recognized by the citizens of the city of his birth.
